This is 50% of their annual target. Note that the ranking of the bonds is governed by FR law but the bonds themselves are governed mainly by English law. However to avoid any issue of third country recognition in the future they contain a bailin clause. - They observe that market index services do not all reflect the introduction of the new senior non-preferred vehicles, e.g. Bloomberg which indexed the FR issuance as subordinated debt. Markit was more granular and introduced a separate index. - They point out to uncertainty as per the future eligibility of traditional senior debt for MREL/TLAC. They It is not clear whether because of NCWO concerns and senior debt being pari passu with large corporate deposits, senior would not be gradually excluded from LAC. - In discussing what could be the value added of an RTS on MREL in the future, they considered transitional periods, and guidance on likely bail-in exclusions, impact of business models and incentives to redeem bonds with call options were good topics. - They wanted our view on a type of bundled product with a convertible bond leg and a call options leg. We discussed that the bond leg, if standalone, seems MREL eligible, but advised to discuss the issue with SRB if they would not consider it structured note.
